OXFORD TEAM IN THE NORTH.

The Oxford University golfers, who are making final preparations for the inter-university match with Cambridge, at Hoylake, next week, had arranged to play a match yesterday on the Sandiway club links against Max Woosnam's Sandiway team, but owing to the course being snowbound the event had to be cancelled. The University players are already at Hoylake, and early yesterday morning, when it was seen that play would not be possible at Sandiway, Woosnam's team suggested transferring the match to the Royal Liverpool links, but learned that the conditions there were no better.
