MR. D. T. MYLREA.

ALTHOUGH he does not play golf—in these days at any rate—there are few better-known “golfers” throughout Cheshire and around Manchester than “Pa” Mylrea. Mr. Mylrea, writes Adjutant, appears to have one great hobby, golf, and to be one of those peculiar people who like to work for nothing. He is, I believe, hon. secretary of the Cheshire County Union, as well as being chairman of committee of the Manchester and District Golf Alliance, hon secretary of the Sale Golf Club, and a vice-president of the Artisan Golfers’ Association.

Possibly he holds other appointments. Local clubs needing a starter for their open tournaments usually call on “Pa,” and there is little danger of things going wrong in that department—a quip or a joke can smooth over many difficulties.
