THE UNWANTED CHILD.

GOVERNMENT URGED TO MAKE ADOPTION LEGAL.

A GROWING PRACTICE.

Adoption of children is becoming more common, and the time has come when the State should have cognisance and a record of all such transactions.

This is the view of the Committee on Child Adoption in their report to the Home Secretary, issued yesterday. The recommendations:

1. Passing of an Act to give legal recognition to the adoption of children, and to secure that the adopter and the child who is adopted have rights and duties similar to those between natural parents and their children.

2. Amendment of the Children Act, 1908, so as to secure publication and supervision of adoptions" which do not receive formal sanction.

3. Legitimation of children born out of wedlock, by the subsequent marriage of their parents.

These three questions are held by the committee to be urgent. When they have been dealt with by separate Acts, they recommend further that the whole legislation relating to children should be taken into consideration, amended as may then be necessary, and consolidated.

AFFECTION AND SECURITY.

Experience has shown, say the committee, that in the case of very children placed under the care of foster-parents, a tie of real affection grows up. At the same ti e there is a lack of security.

Possessing, by definite legal rights over the child, the foster-parents run grave risks that at any time the natural parents may appear and disturb it, claim to take it away, and even attempt to levy blackmail.

It is recommended that the judge making an adoption order instead of making it final should make a provisional order, to take effect only for a limited period—say three of four months—in order to provide against a transfer of baby's. Adoption, once sanctioned, should be regarded as permanent, and revocable only by order of the court. The Committee of administration of the Act specified by statute.

WAIVING PARENTS' CONSENT.

The consent of a parent might be dispensed with:

1. Where the parent cannot be found.
2. Where the child has been abandoned.
3. Where the parent is incurably insane.
4. Where the parent has been guilty of persistent cruelty or neglect of the child.
5. Where the parent has been deprived by law of the custody of the child.

Where such a child is being brought up in such conditions as are likely to result in serious detriment to its moral or physical welfare.

The child would take the name of the adopter, unless otherwise provided by the order.

KILLED WITH IRON BAR.

BRITISH MILITARY POLICEMAN'S FATE IN EGYPTIAN RIOTS.

An Alexandria telegram, dated yesterday, says a demonstration by a crowd in favour of Zaghloul Pasha continued all day long. The crowd, which included many boys, attacked motor cars, horse-drawing barrows of stones, attacked four police stations and set fire to the Customs and fuel police stations. The police fired killing some of the rioters. Within a British military policeman was killed with an iron bar. British soldiers were also attacked.

A Cairo message reports that three rioters were killed and eleven injured. At one period the police had command of a fairly large area of the European quarter, having three hours of practically undisturbed rioting before the Egyptian Lancers were summoned.

AN UNPROFITABLE RELATION.

ARNOLD LABOURER REFUSES TO QUIT BROTHER'S HOUSE.

When John Hopewell, farm labourer, was charged at the Shardlow Police Hall to-day with refusing to quit the Lord Nelson Inn, Arnold, and also with using threats to the landlord, Harold Arthur Hopewell, aged 24, he said he appeared for the latter said that unfortunately they were brothers and owing to that relationship defendant thought his refreshments oughts not to cost him anything.

Complainant said that on Sunday, May 15th, owing to his brother's conduct, he told him he would not supply him again. He, however, came again on the Monday night, and when refused drink he said his brother's wife had promised for a rough house. He was ordered out of the house twice, and before he left he threatened to kill complainant and he (witness) was about to close and fight him the first time they met.

Defendant: He is drunk when it occurred, and I am very sorry. When drinks in wit's out. The chairman (Mr. T. R. L. Edge) said licence holders must be protected. Defendant would be fined 50s., and bound over to keep the peace for six months.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

MR. BERNARD JOHNSON AND WORK AT THE ALBERT HALL.

The development of the musical movement at the Nottingham Albert Hall is the subject of an interesting article in the Daily Telegraph by Mr. Bernard Johnson, who says: "The Albert Hall of Nottingham was about 3,000 people, and contains a good four-manual Binns organ. It is of the Jesse Hind type. The novelty of the opening recitals by Perkins, Lemare, Hollins, and others had worn off, the problem presented how to arouse, and, if possible, increase public interest in music of the best type. We began by a recital in the afternoon of the first Sunday of each of the six winter months in the year.

Being precluded from charging for admission by the terms on which the hall was assessed for rates we had to fall back on the world's spirit contributions which has been officially declared 'off.'

The child would take the name of the adopter, unless otherwise provided by the order.

CYCLIST'S FATAL INJURIES.

SEQUEL TO COLLISION WITH MOTOR-CAR.

An inquest was held at the Nottingham General Hospital to-day on John Henry Widdowson, 39, cement labourer, of Barnstone, who was injured in a collision with a motor vehicle while cycling near Ruddington on May 4th, and died in the institution on Thursday.

Mr. T. F. B. Beck represented the driver and owner of the car, Mr. A. Shortland, of Upping-borough-road, Ruddington. Mr. Arthur Hage, M.P., watched the proceedings on behalf of the National Union of General Workers.

Owen Richardson, of 29, Priory-road, West Bridgford, who was a passenger in the motor-car, which was going towards Ruddington, said that when at the cross roads, Ruddington, on the Loughborough-road, deceased came out on his bicycle from behind a stationary horse and van and collided with the car. There was room for the car to pass the horse and van, but the latter appeared to "lose his head." The driver of the car, Mr. Shortland, tried to get across in front of the van, but the impact occurred.

Result of the impact was that deceased was thrown on to the bonnet of the car, which was on its proper side of the road. The car pulled up in a few feet.

A pedestrian, Harry Hanson, of Ruddington, said the Loughborough-road came down Ruddington hill and witnessed agreed that deceased came out from behind the van, also that the doctor of the car was sounding. In his opinion the driver of the car was not in any way to blame.

Medical evidence showed that death was due to laceration of the brain, following a fracture to the base of the skull, and a verdict of "Accidental death" was returned.

NOTTS. AT CHESTERFIELD.

YOUNG DERBYSHIRE PLAYER'S GOOD SCORE.

WHYSALL AS WICKET-KEEPER.

Stimulated by their eight wickets victory over Worcestershire Derbyshire encountered their Notts. neighbours at Chesterfield to-day and included G. R. Blackton for B. S. Hill-Wood. Oates sustained a blow on the thumb against Middlesex and was compelled to stand down. Whysall officiating behind the stumps and Staples completing the eleven.

Hodgkiss was hurriedly recruited and there was an attendance of about 3,000 spectators when Buckton, having won the toss, opened Derbyshire's innings against Barratt with Oliver in attack being shared by Barratt and Richmond.

It was a fortunate start for the Peak representatives, the opening pair of batsmen being clean-bowled by successive deliveries from Barratt with only 12 runs on the indicator, the latter's first hit in such instance.

Thereupon Hutchinson then made a determined stand, the first-named, who hails from Closson and played before the war, twice deflecting the ball round to the leg boundary and showing a watchful defence. His partner, however, was not quite so confident, and when he had scored 17 he returned to Richmond before his bad subscribed half a dozen runs.

Twenty-four were added in half an hour, and then Bowden hit an overpitched ball straight to Carr and was bowled by Barratt, who completed a smart catch

Smith, Matthews and Staples tried as a double change on Cadman's arrival, progress became very slow. Hutchinson still experiencing considerable difficulty in getting runs, and Smith, who is a painstaking to a degree, and only contributed a single in the first hour of his stay at the wicket. Richmond was reinstated, and entered a confident appeal against him for leg-before, but in vain, the batsman playing the ball carefully to the off for five minutes.

Barratt was bowling exceptionally well, and neither batsman seemed exactly comfortable against him.

Further variations in attack ought to have proved successful, as after playing with excessive care for thirty-five minutes for 13, Cadman offered a chance off Barratt, which Hardstaff, fielding in the gully, failed to take with the left hand.

At lunch ninety minutes' tedious cricket had produced 61 runs, of which 19 were credited to Mr. Hutchinson.

The attendance had increased to nearly 5,000 when, shortly after the interval, Smith put on a second file into the proceedings by making a series of stylish strokes to leg off Barratt and Staples hitting a couple of fours along the off.

The partnership had realised 49 in an hour when Staples, playing on to his wicket, failed to get the ball back to the bowler. It was the first time he had well opened his shoulders.

Curgenven, one of Derbyshire's most attractive batsmen prior to the war, quickly got off the mark by hitting an over-pitched ball to the boundary, but off-driving, bolt free and beautifully timed strokes.

Smith, who had completed his fifty, failed to give much trouble, as in attempting a hard drive, he missed the ball altogether, and his leg stump was sent flying.

Hutchinson was now playing good cricket, and by steadily and surely brought up the 100 in two hours. Matthews superseded Barratt, but Morton made no headway, and although he was given the benefit of a couple of lives against him, he was caught and bowled by Staples.

The Notts. captain frequently changed the bowling, but Hutchinson, who had now reached his century, still found runs, and Richmond being miserable of finding his length, Barratt was recalled, and Hutchinson enjoyed the distinction of making the first half-century after a stay of two hours and twenty minutes. The young batsman was the life and soul of the big score which he was making for Bulkcroft Colliery, near Eastwood, the club which 3,000 pounds sterling.

His highest contribution last year was 44 against Essex at Leyton. He certainly has cultivated a very manlike defence, although at present his strokes appear to lack the power of a polished batsman, a promise which he showed to-day was distinctly encouraging.

BRIGHT START BY SUSSEX.

LEICESTER BOWLING TREATED WITH SCANT RESPECT.

Fine weather prevailed when this match commenced at Leicester this morning and there was a small attendance. Sussex won the toss, opened the batting, and 39 runs were recorded in 35 minutes.

The scoring was exceedingly fast, and Bowley, hitting and off-driving with great force, obtained 50 and 73 runs in forty-four minutes, although Astill were superseded by Bala and King, but the change did not check the progress. At lunch the score was 144 for none.

Directly after the resumption Bowley was missed by Astill and scored 100 before he proceeded to run into three figures after batting exactly two hours.

AUSTRALIANS AT LORD'S.

STRONG M.C.C. TEAM SECURE FIRST INNINGS.

The Australians began the seventh match of their tour at Lord's to-day, the opposing side representing the Marylebone Club being strong in batting, with Hobbs, Sutcliffe, Woolley, Hendry, Oldfield, Ryder, and Mayne stood down from the batting side of Rhodes, Jessop, and Lee played. Mayne was put in instead of Fry and Gibson. Glorious cricket conditions prevailed with a fast wicket and perfect weather, and Woolley, Sutcliffe, Jessop and Macdonald open the bowling against Lee and Johnston's pace, the latter, getting at some rash taun, having won the toss. The batting was good, despite Gregory's intimidating short length and at 34 the score had reached 100, when Hobbs was fast bowler.

Hobbs was caught at mid-off at 44, Armstrong bowling tiresome maidens over length, and at 52, Sutcliffe was caught at point by Gregory who had relieved McDonald, got Lee leg-before. At lunch Marylebone had lost two wickets for 89.

Afternoon play for the M.C.C. and Ground brought in £4491 1s. 8d. to the R.A., and the Charity Shield match at Stamford Bridge on the 28th. The latter was was divided equally between the Football National War Fund and Sir. Donaldson's Hostel.

After allowing for the ordinary items of expenditure there is a balance of £9,029 5s. 7d. The international match account shows a profit of £966 5s. 5d.

Various proposals relating to the laws of the game to be come before the meeting. The Scottish F.A. propose alterations to Laws 1 and 6 so that, if agreed to, Rangers would be off-side if he is not within his opponents' 40 yards area at the moment the ball is played by any player of the same side.

The International Board have decided that a player must not wear a bandage on the forearm when he enters the field after the commencement of a match.

The Welsh F.A. propose that in all international matches the country playing at home shall have the choice of ends in the first half of the match, and the F.A. themselves propose that in all international matches the jerseys worn by the goalkeepers shall be of the same colours, but distinctive from the jerseys worn by the players.

ANOTHER FORWARD FOR FOREST.

Mr. R. J. Marsters has signed on another new player for the Nottingham Forest. Walter Tinsley, the Middlesbrough forward, who played regularly for the Reds in wartime football. Tinsley, who comes from the Hull district, is an inside left and an exceedingly capable player. He was obtained from Middlesbrough in 1922, and has played one season with that club. He joined Middlesbrough on the season 1913-14. He is 29 yrs. 8jins., and over 11 stones.

CYCLISTS' WAR MEMORIAL.

To-day a National Cyclists' pilgrimage will take place to Meriden, a small village which claims to be the centre of cycling in England. There at 6 p.m. an obelisk of grey granite will be unveiled to the memory of the cyclists who fell in the war.

Altogether it is anticipated that more than 5,000 cyclists from all parts of the country will arrive in the village to take part in this ceremony.

The inscription upon the obelisk will be:

To the lasting Memory of those Cyclists who fell in the Great War.

Lord Birkenhead, himself an old cyclist, will perform the ceremony of unveiling.

Owing to non-delivery of the apparatus, the first automatic tel one exchange in the City of London, which will take 5,000 subscribers in the Fleet-street area, will not be ready for year.

Nobody will employ you now unless you can do some work.—Printout at Ealing.

LADY FOOTBALLERS.

DICK, KERR'S v WELSH LADIES IN NOTTINGHAM.

Although in comparison with the attendance in other towns Nottingham perhaps compared unfavourably, when Dick, Kerr's famous team of lady footballers met a side drawn from the Welsh ladies at Meadow Lane this afternoon, there was a fair crowd of 3,000 spectators.

The fair sex, as represented by Kerr's XI., come with a remarkable record of 98 matches played without defeat, and a total of 371 goals against 15. The Welsh side were fortunate enough to win the toss, and Miss Lamb (Mrs. D. Bowie) kicked off.

From the commencement it was obvious that Kerr's ladies were too clever for the opposition, and when play had been in progress only five minutes HARRIS, taking advantage of a beautiful centre from PARKINS, scored a pretty goal, whilst six minutes later, RADFORD, from Haslam's pass, put her side further ahead.

Hereabouts the Welsh goalkeeper was frequently applauded for smart work, and although MILLS added two more, PARKINS and RADFORD each more each for Kerr's Lamprey was in no way to blame for the latter's goals due to her efforts entirely that the score was not still heavier. The attendance by this time had increased to fully 6,000, and Kerr's ladies were now showing to advantage.

Directly after the resumption Bowley was missed by Astill and scored 100 before he proceeded to run into three figures after batting exactly two hours.

Various proposals relating to the laws of the game to be come before the meeting. The Scottish F.A. propose alterations to Laws 1 and 6 so that, if agreed to, Rangers would be off-side if he is not within his opponents' 40 yards area at the moment the ball is played by any player of the same side.

The International Board have decided that a player must not wear a bandage on the forearm when he enters the field after the commencement of a match.

The Welsh F.A. propose that in all international matches the country playing at home shall have the choice of ends in the first half of the match, and the F.A. themselves propose that in all international matches the jerseys worn by the goalkeepers shall be of the same colours, but distinctive from the jerseys worn by the players.

ANOTHER FORWARD FOR FOREST.

Mr. R. J. Marsters has signed on another new player for the Nottingham Forest. Walter Tinsley, the Middlesbrough forward, who played regularly for the Reds in wartime football. Tinsley, who comes from the Hull district, is an inside left and an exceedingly capable player. He was obtained from Middlesbrough in 1922, and has played one season with that club. He joined Middlesbrough on the season 1913-14. He is 29 yrs. 8jins., and over 11 stones.

CYCLISTS' WAR MEMORIAL.

To-day a National Cyclists' pilgrimage will take place to Meriden, a small village which claims to be the centre of cycling in England. There at 6 p.m. an obelisk of grey granite will be unveiled to the memory of the cyclists who fell in the war.

Altogether it is anticipated that more than 5,000 cyclists from all parts of the country will arrive in the village to take part in this ceremony.

The inscription upon the obelisk will be:

To the lasting Memory of those Cyclists who fell in the Great War.

Lord Birkenhead, himself an old cyclist, will perform the ceremony of unveiling.

Owing to non-delivery of the apparatus, the first automatic tel one exchange in the City of London, which will take 5,000 subscribers in the Fleet-street area, will not be ready for year.

Nobody will employ you now unless you can do some work.—Printout at Ealing.

Flight-officer Carr and First-Class Mechanic Armstrong, were killed in an aeroplane smash at Fort Grange, Gosport, yesterday.

INTERNATIONAL GOLF.

BRITAIN AND AMERICA OPPOSED AT HOYLAKE.

YANKEES WIN THE DOUBLES.

The great championship meeting at Hoylake, the greatest ever held in the history of golf, was inaugurated to-day with a contest between the amateurs of Britain and America. The match is not only unique in the annals of the game, but forms a striking illustration of the advance of the Royal and Ancient game throughout the world, and the power to which it has risen in the United States, which only a few years ago knew not their arrival at this country the play of the visitors has been almost unbelievably remarkable. In the first of three test men, Charles Evans, who has twice previously competed in our championships, Francis Ouimet, who was here in 1914, and who is best known to fame as the boy who beat Vardon and Ray in the play-off for the American open title, and last, and greatest of all, Bobby Jones, who is reputed to be one of the most wonderful prodigies the game has ever known, not even excepting John Ball and the late Young Tom Morris.

The match, which consists of 36 holes in the forenoon and singles in the afternoon, and the morning saw the onset of play.

It was a magnificent morning with not a breath or wind and the sun shining from a cloudless sky. There was a fine gathering of spectators by ten o'clock. Inside the club, the chairman of the Royal and Ancient game, Mr. Lyon Clark, who officially weighed and measured the balls the players were using.

Jones drove the first ball and his shot finished in a grassy hollow very nearly out of bounds. Evans, on the other hand, reached the green in one distance. Simpson put his brassey shot just short of the green, and Ouimet, who played third to the grass lie, Evans boldly cut the corner of the out of bounds and was inside the Scotsmen's ball. Ouimet, who had a long putt, was next to play, and Jones put his dead. Simpson made a gallant effort to get his long putt, and just stopped just the edge.

At the second Simpson outdrove Evans and sending a hotted to within a few feet of the green, approach by Jones was retrieved by a splendid effort up by Ouimet, almost dead, to the pin and the hole was halved in three.

At the fourth Jones, the American skipper, hold the ball out of bounds. They played seven to reach the green, and although Ouimet played out of bounds with his third drive he, and Jones, the Americans to win the hole easily in six against an approximate five.

The Englishmen might have won the second, but Holderness's marvellous approach putt, and the hole was halved in five. A third Yankee win was drove Guilford, the biggest of the American sweepers, but Holderness, with a fine iron shot, secured a weak display in approach putting by Holderness the Englishmen won the hole in five against six, and were hera two up.

Tolley and Holderness started home very badly, losing the fifth.

The Americans also started with the advantage in the sixth hole, Ouimet's approach putt, and the hot Wood Platt put his second shot out of bounds, and the hole was halved. The British pair won the second, Tolley getting their three, the Americans lost the third, and were two down.

The results created something like consternation in the British camp, but the Americans quickly improved their superiority in a form of game in which they have little experience. Jones, a fresh-complexioned fifty year old, delighted the crowd by immense crowd, and so did Evans.
